BAKERSFIELD The Rev. Wesley W. Smith, pastor of the Congregational Church of Bakersfield, was stricken by a shock Friday April 30 and died Wednesday evening, May 5, Mr. Smith came to Bakersfield in the fall of 1916. In the nearly four years of service here he won the respect, admiration and love of the cutire community. Dignifled and grave, he first impressed one as a man of firm and serious purpose. A close acquaintance did not lessen his impression, but revealed such a kindly and tolerant spirit, such a wise and friendly understanding of those, who held different views, that the determination and strong convictions scemed ground for confidence rather than for opposition, However ardently he strove to accomplish his purposes, nobody ever suspected Mr. Smith of being prompted by motives of per-sonal gain or triumph. In conversation Max Jolley, of Berkshire Center, has scholarly mind was always evident, but without pedantry. Seldom indulgthe store here, formerly owned by E. A. ing in jokes and seeming to feel that pleasantry was suitable only among intimate friends, he yet had a quiet approclation of clean fun and humorous situations and a gift of punger expression that made him a delightful companion. Mr. Smith was not only a faithful paster, interested in his professional duties, but, as a good citizen, he was interested in all social activities. The academy had in him a warm and helpful friend. He was a member of the local grange, had recently joined the Masonic fraternity, and scout-master of the boy scouts, who looked upon him as one whose advice was always good to follow. Above all. and in all, he was the true paster of his people. He served them in order that he might lead them to his Heaven-Father, whom he served first of all. His sermons were never planned for display of learning, nor to entertain, but with the single purpose of inspiring true plety and reverence. And a steady growth in attendance at both chura and Sunday school services proved the value of his work. He has gone to his neward, but with us he has left the record of a man's work faithfully done; and while we sorrow for our loss, we rejoice that he has been with us. Mr. Smith was born in New Providence, N. J., September 15, 1860. He graduated from Wyoming Seminary at Kingston. Pa., in from Weslyan University in 1881; from Drew Theological Seminary in 1891. On May 21, 1884, he married Lucia Dewey of West Pittston, Pa. To them were born eleven children, five sons
